HEADQUARTERS, SECOND BATTALION
314TH INFANTRY

28 February 1945.

SUBJECT: Unit Journal, from 19-31 January 1945 and month of February 1945.

TO : Adjutant, 314th Infantry Regiment.

1. The attached letter dated 28th February 1945, Headquarters 314th Infantry, is extracted from the Regimental History. It is the only official record which, in detail, describes the attack on Drusenheim, France resulting in the loss of 23 officers and 301 enlisted men. This included all the staff officers of the 2nd Battalion, 314th Infantry. All records and documents in the Battalion command post on the 20th January 1945 were either captured or destroyed.

2. The attached letters dated 18th February 1945, are rosters, by Company, of all enlisted men of the 2nd Battalion 314th Infantry, who were listed as M.I.A. as of the 20th January 1945.

3. The attached letter dated 28th February 1945, is a roster, which includes the status of each officer present for duty with the 2nd Battalion, 314th Infantry on the 20th January 1945.

4. The attached letters dated 11th February 1945, are rosters, by Company, of enlisted men carried on the Company rosters at the time of the attack on Drusenheim 20th January 1945 and were accounted for on the 21st of January 1945. The rosters indicate the assignment of each enlisted man at the time of the attack and also the duty to which he was assigned when the Battalion was reorganized.

5. On the 22nd January 1945, a skeleton of the 2nd Battalion, 314th Infantry was assembled at Wangenburg, France for the purpose of reorganizing this unit. Reinforcements of officers and enlisted men began arriving on the 24th January 1945. It was then that the reconstitution of the Battalion began.

6. From the period 24th January 1945 to 29th January 1945, the Battalion remained at Wangenburg, France and this entire period was spent in reorganization, reequipping and training. On the 31st January 1945 the Battalion was alerted to move to Hageneau, France where it was to go into Regimental Reserve for the 314th Infantry.

7. The following is a roster of the officers who reported to Major Dale O. Hogeboom, Battalion Commander, as a nucleus of officers to reform the 2nd Battalion. It indicated their old assignments prior

HEADQUARTERS,
314TH INFANTRY REGIMENT

28 February 1945.

SUBJECT: Extract from Regimental History.

TO : Commanding Officer, Second Battalion, 314th Infantry Regiment.

1. The following is an extract from the 314th Infantry Regimental History:

19 January 1945

Rohrwiller received a heavy artillery concentration at 0115 hours.

By 0540 hours the 36th Infantry Division had one battalion and one anti-tank company in position on the outskirts of Bischwiller.

The 2nd Battalion at 1100 hours reported three enemy tanks in the southwest corner of the Bois de Sessenheim were being engaged by two tank destroyers which were in position in the northerly part of Drusenheim and also an enemy build-up in the south part of Drusenheim. Throughout the rest of the day there were numerous reports by the 2nd Battalion and the 3rd Battalion of an enemy build-up.

Believing there was a threat from the north as the enemy was building up in that part of the Bois de Sessenheim formerly held by elements of the 1st Battalion, 314th Infantry and Company K of the 232nd Infantry, Lt. Col. Huff retained two of the three tank destroyers he had with him in the northerly part of Drusenheim; built up the outpost established by Company F where the railroad crossed the road at grid line #19, put one platoon of Company F in position from the outpost south along the westerly side of the railroad tracks around the last house on the unimproved road leading to the Bois de Soufflenheim down to the Rohrwiller-Drusenheim road where the company had a .50 caliber machine gun set up. Company F was further disposed as follows: one platoon was in position along the southeast portion of the Bois de Drusenheim, another platoon was along the east edge of the Bois de Drusenheim and elements of the company manned another .50 caliber machine gun in the vicinity of the Intelligence and Reconnaissance platoon outpost near the railroad tracks. At this time E and G companies maintained a perimeter defense around the remainder of the outskirts of Drusenheim; Company G on the northeast outskirts and Company E on the southwest outskirts.

Finally at about 1800 hours tanks or self-propelled guns, in support of infantry, moved up to the river in Company F's sector along the southeast edge of the Bois de Drusenheim, firing HE shells. This apparent diversion was followed by an attack at 1815 hours upon Drusenheim from the north, northeast and southwest, the main effort coming from that part of the Bois de Sessenheim formerly held by elements of the 1st Battalion, 314th Infantry and K Company, 232nd Infantry, down the railroad tracks.

Extract from Regimental History, 514th Inf. Regt., 28 Feb 1945 -contd-

The infantry, armed with small bazookas, preceded the attack followed by two tanks, one of which cut the Rohrwiller-Drusenheim road and the other cut the unimproved road leading to the Bois de Soufflenheim. As the infantry came down the tracks a group surrounded the Intelligence and Reconnaissance platoon outpost and group of Company F manning the .50 caliber machine gun along the railroad tracks who had taken refuge in the building the Intelligence and Reconnaissance platoon used as an outpost. When the enemy hit Drusenheim it surrounded the battalion command post and then fanned out in three directions from the railroad tracks cutting up the companies deployed around the outskirts of the town. Three more tanks quickly followed the attack advancing upon Drusenheim from the northeast.

At 1920 hours the enemy worked in between F and K Companies after which K Company pulled its left flank back to the Rohrwiller-Drusenheim road.

At 1935 hours the 2nd Battalion was completely surrounded. The orders were on receipt of the report to fight through to the northwest.

A plan was in the making at 1945 hours to have one company of the 411th Infantry to attack from the northwest to Drusenheim which never materialized. Eventually one company of the 411th Infantry was sent down to fill the gap between the 3rd Battalion and right flank of the 411th Infantry.

Word was received from Lt. Col. Huff at 2230 hours that it was impossible to break through. Again the 2nd Battalion was ordered to break through.

Another plan was in the making to have one battalion of the 142nd Infantry and Companies L and K of the 514th Infantry plus tanks retake Drusenheim in the morning which also never materialized and instead, at 2330 hours it was planned, depending upon the enemy situation as it developed to send Companies L and K with tanks attached to the 142nd Infantry to retake Drusenheim.

At 1505 hours the Regiment was informed that the 1st Battalion of the 143rd Infantry will move to the right of Company L later in the day and be responsible for the defense of Rohrwiller. COB also planned to have one platoon of tanks at the bridgehead with Company L and one platoon behind Rohrwiller. At 2110 hours Company K pulled back to the northeast edge of Rohrwiller.

At 0600 hours Companies A and B reverted to the control of the 1st Battalion and were sent to Soufflenheim where they set up a defense around the town. Under cover of darkness, at 1800 hours Companies A and B moved out to take up defensive positions southwest of the Bois de Rountzenheim cutting the road between Soufflenheim and Sessenheim where they dug in for the night.

20 January 1945

The last word received from the 2nd Battalion was at 0150 hours when it reported that it was impossible to get out.

Elements of F Company started arriving in Bischwiller at 0305 hours. At 0430 hours Lt. Hurst arrived at the regimental command post with the information that 53 enlisted men, five officers and one company aid man with F Company had come through. He also stated that when he left Drusenheim there were eight to ten tanks operating along the streets of Drusenheim firing into the cellars, and that there were an unknown number of tanks and self-propelled guns on the other side of the river on the southeast side of Drusenheim firing into the town. There were also an unknown number of 20mm AA guns, estimated to be in the vicinity of 157175, which fired into Drusenheim and covered the Rohrwiler-Drusenheim road.

From all reports, the command post, although surrounded immediately, held out until 0430 hours at which time all the men were given permission to make a break. Shortly after the command group surrendered and were seen in the light of flashlights used by the enemy lined up in the street in front of the command post. Small arms fire was heard in Drusenheim until about 0645 hours and 81mm mortars were heard firing a short time thereafter.

Among those escaping from Drusenheim were six men of the Intelligence and Reconnaissance platoon.

In addition to the personnel of the 2nd Battalion missing in action as a result of the fall of Drusenheim there are missing in action the following:

	Officers	Enlisted Men
Regimental Headquarters Company	1	15
Anti-Tank Company	1	15
Medical Detachment	2	29

The 3rd Battalion was ordered to send out a patrol at 0558 hours to effect contact with the unit which was sent to fill the gap as it was reported digging in.

At 0840 hours an overlay was received from Division showing tentative lines and boundaries in case it should be decided to fall back.

At 0940 hours General Linden arrived at the regimental command post to discuss plans for the future but at 1115 hours orders were received to fall back to the lines indicated on the overlay received earlier in the morning at a time to be announced later. At 1142 hours the instructions received from Division for the withdrawal were as follows: D-Day, 20 January 1945, H-Hour, for the motors, 1830 hours, for the foot troops, 1930 hours and 0300 hours, 21 January 1945 for the rear guard. Later it was announced that the 411th Infantry Regiment was to furnish the rear guard.

Representatives from the 1st and 3rd Battalions accompanied the Regimental Commander on a reconnaissance of the new positions.

At 1500 hours a second overlay in more detail was received. It provided for an outpost line and a main line of resistance from 0821 to 096189 and the 1st Battalion, 410th Infantry Regiment to be attached to the Regiment on arrival into the line on the left and the 36th Infantry Division on the right. At 1410 hours the Regiment was notified that the unit on the right will move back later than anticipated changing plans so that the 3rd Battalion will conform its withdrawal with that unit. Finally at 1606 hours the time for the 3rd Battalion to withdraw was fixed at 2300 hours. At the same time the Regiment was informed that the 36th Infantry Division will leave one company and some heavy weapons in Rohrwiler until daylight to cover the withdrawal.

Toward late afternoon there appeared to be an enemy build-up in the Bois de Drusenheim. It was felt that 8 inch artillery fired into the Bois de Drusenheim broke up an attack.

Companies A and B pulled back to Soufflenheim at 0600 hours and Company I pulled back into Soufflenheim at 1930 hours. Companies A and B with Company I moved out on Quartermaster trucks at 2100 hours.
